

Camp Creek Village focuses on Mediterranean style

South Fulton community offers style, pool, fitness center

In keeping with the Mediterranean style of the community, Kathy Nielson of Georgia Interior Solutions LLC chose a color palette of earth tones, sea and sky blues and soft yellow for the B floor plan, one of two model homes at Camp Creek Village in south Fulton County.

"The colors typically used in homes in the Mediterranean region echo the sea and the sky. In this model, we also used terra cotta to pick up the colors of the exterior and fabrics with texture to carry out the Mediterranean theme," Nielson said.

The townhouse units at Camp Creek Village are designed to resemble Mediterranean villas.

This sleek, open kitchen features maple cabinets with bead board center panels, granite countertops and stainless appliances with black trim that complements the trim around the fireplace in the great room.

She used wrought-iron pieces and silk greenery throughout the townhome to give the open floor plan a sense of continuity and chose furniture in rich oak shades to blend with the hardwood floors in the living areas.

The four-story townhome has an open floor plan that includes a finished basement and garage and a roof-top terrace. Some of the units are designed to accommodate elevators.

Camp Creek Village is a 40-acre mixed-use development that will ultimately include townhomes, single-family homes, active adult condominiums and 30,000 square feet of retail space. Townhomes and single-family homes are available now, with construction on the condominiums slated to begin later this year.

Community amenities include a swimming pool, a clubhouse, fitness center, lighted tennis court, greenbelts and walking trails, streetlights and sidewalks and community Wi-Fi
